THE GOVERNOR AND THE SANITARY BOARD.

IT will scarcely be maintained by the friends and supporters of the Governor in the existing difficulty with the Permanent Committee of the Sanitary Board on the Lai-chi-kok hospital question, that his Excellency has vindicated himself or even strengthened his case by the official despatch sent to the Chairman, Mr. Francis, Q.C., and published in yesterday's Telegraph. At the most his Excellency has shown some "extenuating circumstances" for his foolish complacency, but in all other respects the letter is an abject and deplorable confession of weakness, both as regards the art of diplomacy and the dignity which should be inseparable labour.

DEATH OF MR. H. V. COX.

CORONER'S INQUEST.

An inquiry into the circumstances attending the death of Mr. H. V. Cox, late of Messrs, A. S. Watson & Co.'s, was held at the Magistracy this forenoon by Mr. H. E. Wodehouse. A. P. Nobbs: I am an assistant in A. S. Watson & Co.'s and knew deceased. He was a chemist in the Dispensary. His age was 27. On the morning of the 30th ult., at about 7 o'clock, I went to business; deceased was due there for duty at the same hour. I went up to his flat to inquire about something and found the door locked. Then went to his room, which faces Stanley Street; his door was locked. I went through the bath-room and saw deceased lying in bed apparently saleep : one hand was hanging out,over the side of the bed. Noticed his fingers were twisted. Thought he was in pain; opened the window and went in. Found he was dead. He was quite cold and bis limbs stiff. Deceased was dressed in his pyjama trowsers only. I reported the matter to the staff then on duty; also to the police. I returned with a policemen and found the body just as I had last seen it. Found on the washhand-stand two blue bottles which had contained prussic acid; they were almost empty. They are Hongkong Humanstarian, in a recent pamphlet on " Free lying on the flor, about three yards from the these contracts shall be entered into for life. Between 8 and o o'clock deceased came for the suggested a 'ricksha ride. We went to Bay View and returned about 11 o'clock. He then ratired to bed. Cannot account for his action. So far as I know he was not nervous about the plague. Have known him for a number of years; his habits were temperate. He did not seem to be at all out of his mind that night. It would be considered unusual to have two bottles of prussic acid in his room at the same time. It was easy for him to procure the acid; all we chemists have access to drugs. Cannot say whether he poisoned himself accidentally or not He had been in the habit of taking prussic acid. It was taken to allay irritation of the stomach. When taken in proper doses > sidered to be an ordinary dose. The effects are not lessened by repetition. Deceased was perfectly sober on Friday night. Dr. Marques, surgeon at Victoria Gaol: am in charge of post mortem examinations. Held one in this case in company with Dr. Jordan, on the 1st inst. Detected the smell of prussic acid. The left side of the brain was firmly attached to the skull, indicating that deceased had been suffering from chronic inflammation. Death was caused by an overdose of pussic acid. Cannot say how long after taking the poison death ensued in large doses it would be instantaneous and is smaller, perhaps two minutes. No great amount of pain would be experienced.

In answer to a question, Mr. Nobbs said that deceased had suffered from insomnia and also from indigestion. Did not know that he had been in the habit of taking prussic acid. Did not detect any amel of the acid in the broken tumbler. Chaldants whether or not it was deceased a heart to local histopher at night.

THE PLAGUE IN HONGKONG.

Nothing calling for special notice has occurred in connection with the plague since our last issue. The returns shows considerable diminution in the rumber of new cases reported, but the subjoined statistics from Lai-chi-kok, which probably understate the facts, show that in the suburbs of the city and native villages in the neighbourhood, the deadly disease is still reging the

SEARCHING EXTRAORDINARY.

TO THE ROTTOR OF THE " HONGRONG TREEGRAPH." SIR,—I shall esteem it a favour if you will kindly favour the following statement with space In an early issue of your popular journal :--

About I a.m. on Sunday last three men belonging to the steamship Exe were on shore

sleeping in a house believed to be in Ship Street, when they were disturbed by an alleged plague search party who demanded five dollars from them! As one of the men had only 50 cents he handed this to them and then he heard the other soldiers, members of the search party, outside his room, demanding money from his shipmates. The latter refused to give them any money, so then the soldiers said they would "chuck them out of the house" and wanted them to fight. The Exc's carpenter, who was one of the aggrieved parties, told them he was too drunk to fight, but that they had better go away and leave him slone. The soldiers would not leave him alone. so the carpenter got up and went to see if he could find a policeman. He found P.C. No. 94 at the door. Instead of helping, the constable struck the said carpenter on the eye and knocked rim down, and with the manistance of the soldiers, one of whom is named Wilson, jumped on him and kicked him, and made him go into the house to put his clothes on so that he could be taken to the lock-up. As soon as the man was ready, the policemen (No. 94) refused to lock him up and told him to go on board his ship. The carpenter then said he would go to the station, and proceeded to No 2 Station. The officer in charge there refused to arrest the bellicose constable, and told "Chips" to come at noon the next day and make his complaint. On the way back to Ship Street two Indian policemen (Nos. 775 and 700) told the carpenter they had seen it all and would willingly give evidence against the searchers. The carpenter and his mates appeared for a summons it the Magistracy at 10 a.m. on Monday morning, and were told to see Captain Superintendent May, which they did, and were informed by him that it was inadvisable to take the case against the European policeman into Court; he could try the case and punish the man. The carpenter enquired what he would advise him to do, but Mr. May told him he would not advise him as he was his own master. The carpenter then told him he should prefer him to settle it, and after all their evidence was taken (not on oath) they were told the case was remanded. may mention that before the policeman (No. 94) was found, he was asleep on one of the beds in the house, and his revolver was lying on the bed beside him.

Now, Mr. Editor, do you not consider both for the honour of the police and the military, the above case should be fully and publicly enquired into? The men in question are quite prepared to "face the music" in Court with a view to having the matter thoroughly sifted in the interests of public justice.

Yours faithfully. MASTER OF STEAMSHIP "EXE." Hongkong, 4th July, 1894.

AN INCUBUS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "HONGKONG TELEGRAPH." DEAR Telegraph, - Before we succeed in stampng out the plague we must have a little trilling assistance from the Colonial Office. Let Downing Street stamp out the Acting Colonial Secretary-sitting upon him is of no use, as custom hath used him to that process-and when he is reduced to political ashes, we are of opinion that there will be fewer cinders on the heads of the suffering dwellers of this benighted island. MY MATCHMAKING.

(Written for the Hongkong Telegraph.)

It was a still hot night towards the end of September. Outside in the garden not a breath of windestirred among the trees and shrubs. Inside in our brightly lighted dining-room the punk th was slowly waving to and fro above our heads; so slowly and sleeplly in fact, that had not other thoughts been occupying my mind I should certainly have sent an Indignant message to the punkah-coolie to wake-up! The slight wind it produced did not ruffle a single leaf or flower which made gay the snow damaak stretching between myself and Jim.
